

ANOTHER STILL IS CAPTURED NEAR RAY

RAY, April 21.—Chief Deputy Thurman found another moonshine outfit in Sonora last Saturday which has been added to the "exhibit A," "B," etc., of a case to come up in the court in the near future. This is the second still operating there and captured in the recent past.

Its Rogers was in town last week and reports good progress at the Dripping Springs mine of which he is in charge. The company is figuring on installing a large plant in the near future. None of this stock is on the market as the owners have sufficient capital of their own. Their property at Mammoth is also showing up well. The Ray chamber of commerce will have a final meeting Saturday to make definite plans for their trip to the Casa Grande valley.

The Ray Con No. 2 mine shut down April 19. The No. 2 main hoist is being overhauled preparatory to speeding up. After the necessary changes have been made, the hoist will have approximately twice its former speed.

Jack Davy and E. F. Cardile were in town this week from Superior. Geo. R. Kinsey accompanied the body of C. A. Schmidt to Phoenix for burial there, as a representative of the Rough Ashlar club. Other club members who were in Phoenix and present at the funeral were Robt. Wilson, E. A. Liddicoat and Frank Schilling.

OFFER MANY NAMES FOR STATE PET SHEEP

With a choice of names that range from the America's "first lady of the land" to America's sweetheart, a list has been submitted to Joe V. Prochaska for his pet mountain sheep, which are being brought up on the bottle by the state game warden.

The game warden has given his devoted attention to the sheep, which later will be presented to the University of Arizona, but he has failed to give them names. This has so distressed the small boys and girls who have haunted the yard in the rear of his home, 1625 West Washington street, that he has decided to name them with the public's help.

The first name suggested was Martha Washington, but the wife of the father of our country is not as much in the public mind as America's sweethearts, for the name Mary Pickford has been suggested some half dozen times. Here are the other names which have been recorded by Game Warden Prochaska: "Clarice, Mabel, Minnie, Joan De Arch, Mary Ann, Josephine, Lydia, Hazel, Alice, Louise, Lovely, Henryetta, Gloria, Hope, Magdalene, Pretty Baby, Maybelle, Geraldine, Senecio, Cutie, Pauline, Sylvia Gladys Juanita.

Completely Equipped and Modern Manual Arts Building Soon to be Part of Phoenix Union High School Group

PHOENIX UNION HIGH SCHOOL soon will be able to boast one of the finest and most completely-equipped manual arts buildings of any high school in the West. Plans for the structure, as prepared by Todd and Miller, architects and engineers, to whom the contract has been awarded by the board of education, call for a structure of which Phoenix may well be proud. The manual arts building is one of four new structures in the high school group for which bonds recently were voted.

The structure is to be of Class A reinforced concrete construction, one story in height, with a mezzanine floor located in the central portion.

In the north wing of the structure, provision is made for a large machine shop, automobile repair department, battery charging and auto painting rooms. Adjoining the machine shop there is to be a tool room and two recitation rooms for lectures and study.

The central or main portion of the building contains a large forge room with an approved type of down draft smoke-removing device, thereby eliminating smoke from the room. A foundry also connects with the forge room.

These rooms will adjoin the machine shop and will be easily accessible. There also will be a wood-working department in this portion of the building with assembly space and pattern, finish, tool and glue rooms.

The mezzanine floor will permit the display of models and the like developed by the pupils during the school course.

The mill department will be located in the south wing, with furnace, kiln and large lumber storage rooms. A saw-dust removing system connected to each machine is to be installed.

The draughting department with blue printing and supply rooms will adjoin the mill as well as a large printing shop to provide for the necessary printing used by the high school.

All of the different departments are to be lighted through a saw-toothed roof, admitting north light which is very essential to this type of building. It being modern and up-to-date, Todd and Miller, the architects, have provided lockers, wash rooms and office for each department, making supervision of the different classes an essential item during the study or work periods.

The building is to be heated from the present central plant and all mechanical equipment is to be of the latest design.

The manual arts building will be 75 by 50 feet in area, facing North Fifth street, and of classic design to conform with the other buildings of the group.

Messrs. Todd and Miller recently have opened an architect and engineering office at 212 Masonic building.

STATE ENCAMPMENT OF G. A. R. IS ENDED

The 33rd annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, of Arizona, Grand Army of the Republic, came to a close yesterday with a picnic and a dinner at Eastlake park by the Women's Relief corps, auxiliary to J. W. Owens post No. 5.

There was a large attendance of veterans and after the dinner an address was made by George W. Barrows, who spoke on present-day conditions and appeared as a strong advocate of the overall movement. His appearance in overall elicited much favorable comment and at the conclusion of his address he was loudly cheered by those present.

Among the veterans of this city who attended were: Marion Abbott, Chas. L. Braxton, G. W. Barrows, Thomas Boyle, Andrew J. Christian, Henry H. Farrington, R. H. Greene, W. M. Grier, Azor McDole, Wilbur H. Phillips, Jas. P. Rhodes, W. F. Smith, A. J. Weaver, Jas. B. Woodson and Milo Webb. Andrew J. Christian acted as toastmaster.
